

REVES ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Social Economy:

Regions & alternative markets for a social and sustainable, citizen-driven Europe!

Good practice and new strategies for inclusive jobs, social public procurement, health services, sustainable regional economic activity and international cooperation.

13th - 15th April 2016

Tulln, Austria

in cooperation with:

CONTENT AND AIM OF THE CONFERENCE

In times of high unemployment rates and migration flows inclusive jobs and initiatives for the consolidation of local communities such as they are generated by social economy – are more important than ever to maintain social cohesion.

Nevertheless, the consequences of the crises and austerity measures do not stop at the doors of social economy enterprises and public support does not increase.

Social economy enterprises and organisations have to find new economic models, new marketing and communication strategies and partnerships – without, however, compromising their own values. They should not stay behind in contributing to develop and spread (re-)emerging concepts such as the one of the real sharing economy which is embedded in social economy values and generates benefits for local communities.

Regions and local authorities (municipalities, cities) play a crucial role in supporting and fostering social economy enterprises and social entrepreneurship and form with them a driving engine to rebuild our societies in a more inclusive, resilient and all in all more sustainable way.

The conference will gather experiences and stimulate the development of strategies around topics like visibility of social economy, the potential of new internet platforms, inclusive labour markets for disadvantaged people (including migrants), social criteria in public procurement and many more.

The event will stimulate the exchange of good practice and know-how. At the same time it will provide opportunities for the creation or a strengthening of partnerships and networks around ongoing and future projects at European and international level. Several interactive sessions and group work moments will be organised to make this possible.
